Butterfly Rescue Ranch Donors, volunteers and the story of every horse

Station gives the ranch one website, one donation system, one email list and one social rhythm, run from one app on the Station Core plan, donated by Station, so every dollar and every volunteer hour gets thanked and shown.

Station gives Butterfly Rescue Ranch one website, one donation system, one email list and one social rhythm, run from one app on the Station Core plan (every Station product plus a custom website, list price $1,497 a month), donated by Station at no charge, so every dollar and every volunteer hour gets thanked and shown. The OU marketing class plans the campaign; Station runs the systems it needs, and keeps them running after the semester ends.

01 Project overview

Butterfly Rescue Ranch saves horses, but people cannot see it happen. The class's brief names the problem as a lack of consistency across channels, and its insight is that donors, volunteers and neighbours would get involved if they could see what their help does.

The ranch's current site, butterflyrescueranch.org, is a three-page Wix site (Home, About, Donate). Its Donate page has no way to pay and asks people to contact Braxton; there is no volunteer form, no horse pages and no costs. Read against the brief, the gaps are:

Gap	What the brief says
No single home	The Wix site carries the name and logo but nothing to do: no way to give, no volunteer form, no horse to follow. Name and message still differ between the site and the social bios.
Giving is unclear	The donation method is undecided (Venmo, GoFundMe, check or cash).
Thank-yous depend on memory	Donors and volunteers stop when their help goes unnoticed; there is no set process to thank or update them.
Impact is invisible	There is no itemized monthly cost per horse, so no dollar can be shown going anywhere.
Followers are not a list	Social followers are not captured into an email list the ranch owns.

The strategy. Every horse gets a page and a story, from arrival to recovery. Every gift and every volunteer hour is thanked within a day and tied back to a horse. Station builds the systems once; the class, and then the OU intern, feed them stories.

02 Objectives and success measures

The engagement succeeds when no donor or volunteer goes unthanked and the ranch's growth targets are met. The growth numbers come from the ranch's own baseline, which the brief still asks for; they are set at signature.

Objective	Target	By when	Counted with
Thank every donor	100% thanked by email within 24 hours, with a horse update inside 30 days	From go-live	Tap (Station Give) and Pursuit
Answer every volunteer	100% of volunteer sign-ups get a same-day reply and an orientation date to pick	From go-live	Volunteer form and Pursuit
Grow donors	From the confirmed baseline to the agreed target	Date set at signature	Donation records in the Station app
Grow volunteers	From the confirmed baseline to the agreed target	Date set at signature	Volunteer pipeline and Slate bookings
Turn followers into a list	Sign-up on the website and in every social bio	Week 3	Dispatch sign-ups
Keep the horse series running	2 posts a week on Instagram and Facebook	From launch, then through the intern	Marquee post calendar
Show where money goes	A monthly cost per horse published on the website	First month after the ranch's cost sheet arrives	The website's Where Your Gift Goes page
Hand over cleanly	An OU intern trained in the app	January 2027	Intern log-in and one month of posts

03 Scope of work

Station delivers seven workstreams. A is the custom website included with Core; B to F are all twelve Station products at their Standard tier, run inside the ranch's own Station app; G is set-up, reporting and the hand-over to the intern. The table maps each job in the class's brief to the product that does it and the part of this section that describes it.

Partnerships with local equestrian programs	Radar	F · Find sponsors and partners

A. One home — the custom website

- One site with the ranch's name, logo and one mission statement on every page, so the brief's mandatories hold everywhere.
- Our Horses: a page for each horse the ranch names, following it through Arrival, Rehabilitation, Meets a student and Assigned, with intake photos as the before. The ranch does not rehome: a recovered horse is assigned to a student in the summer program, who may go on to own it.
- Where Your Gift Goes: the itemized monthly cost of caring for one horse, from the cost sheet the ranch provides.
- Donate and Volunteer buttons on every page, leading to the donation pages (B) and a volunteer form that feeds Pursuit (C).
- A links page for every social bio, replacing Linktree, with the same two buttons at the top.
- Email sign-up on every page.

A working concept of this home page, built on the ranch's own photos, logo and colors, is at stationonemain-source.github.io/butterfly-ranch (unlisted). It shows the horse journal, the monthly cost table, the volunteer form and the program price list with the ranch's 2025 camp and lesson prices. Blanks in it are the items in Section 09.

B. Make giving easy — Tap (Station Give)

- One-time and monthly gifts by card, Apple Pay, Google Pay or bank, on the ranch's own Stripe account, from the website, every bio and every flyer. Money goes straight to the ranch; Station takes none of it.
- Sponsor a horse: Friend, Sponsor and Business levels, billed monthly, with the sponsor's first name on the horse's page if they opt in.
- A tax receipt for every gift, sent immediately. Every monthly receipt carries a link to update the card or stop the gift; a failed card gets an update-your-card email and is retried automatically.
- Invoices for business sponsors and partners who give by business card or want a receipt for a set amount.
- Venmo, GoFundMe and checks can stay as secondary options; the card link is the one the campaign promotes.

C. Thank, update and keep — Dispatch, Pursuit, Revive

- Every one-time gift, and the first payment of every monthly gift, sends a personal thank-you in Braxton's voice about 20 minutes later, and adds the donor to the list.
- Every volunteer sign-up gets a same-day welcome by text and email and a link to book orientation, followed up until they reply (up to 5 texts and 5 emails over 14 days), drawing on the plan's shared 1,900 texts and 25,000 emails a month.
- One pipeline for every open volunteer, sponsor, partner and adopter enquiry.
- A monthly email to the list, built from templates in the editor: which horses arrived, which moved a stage, and what last month's gifts paid for, from the same shared 25,000 emails a month.
- Win-back waves to people who gave or volunteered once and went quiet: up to 5,000 contacts a wave, a wave every quarter.

D. Answer everyone — Greet, Slate, Lineback, Frontdesk

- Website chat on every page that answers how to donate, volunteer and visit, and captures the visitor's details (250 chats a month).
- A booking page for volunteer days, orientations and meet-and-greets with rescue horses, with reminders (100 text and 300 email reminders a month).
- Missed-call text-back on the ranch number, because whoever answers the phone is usually with a horse (from the shared 1,900 texts a month).
- A phone receptionist trained on the ranch's FAQ, 500 minutes a month. It takes a message on horse surrender and welfare calls and passes urgent ones straight to Braxton.
- A business number that calls and texts comes with the plan. Texting registration is filed from inside the app and approved by the carriers in about 1 to 3 business days.

E. Get found and trusted — Echo, Repute, Marquee

- Create or claim the Google Business Profile and manage it: one name, one set of hours, the donate and volunteer links, photos, one horse update a week, and a 9-point Maps rank grid around Norman.

- A review request to every visitor and volunteer after a volunteer day or meet-and-greet (300 requests a month), never only the happy ones, because Google bans review gating. A drafted reply to every review for Braxton to approve.
- Social scheduling to up to 3 accounts (Instagram, Facebook and one more) from one calendar. The class, then the intern, write the two-a-week horse series; Marquee posts it on time and tags the donors and partners each post names.

F. Find sponsors and partners — Radar

- Five new local prospects a week in up to 3 categories (equestrian programs, feed and tack stores, veterinary clinics), each with business details and a phone number, delivered into the partner pipeline for the class's sponsorship asks.

G. Set-up, reporting and hand-over

- Station sets up every product above in the first 30 days (Section 06).
- A monthly report of donations, volunteers, bookings, calls, chats, reviews and list growth, sent automatically each month.
- A one-hour training for the OU intern in January 2027, and a written guide to the weekly routine: post the series, send the monthly email, check the pipeline.

What runs automatically: the 29 automations

Workstreams B to G run as 29 automations inside the ranch's Station app. Each one starts on its own trigger. Every message is pre-written in the ranch's voice, signed by the ranch, and approved by Braxton in a one-hour review before go-live.

Approval column. Template: approved once, in the one-hour review. Each time: waits for Braxton's approval on every send. Script and Facts: the receptionist and chat answer only from a script and fact sheet Braxton approves. —: an alert or a record, nothing sent to the public.

Built-in protections. A gift is never counted or thanked twice. No one gets more than 6 messages a day. Unsubscribes are honored everywhere. No email leaves until the ranch's own mailbox is connected, and no text until its carrier registration is approved. Donations stay off until the ranch's EIN, legal name, address and its own Stripe account are in place.

Every message any product sends is pre-written in the ranch's voice (hopeful, accountable, personal, as the brief sets it), editable in the app, and approved by Braxton before it goes live. The ranch's name and number are on everything; Station stays backstage.

04 Deliverables and acceptance criteria

A deliverable is accepted when Braxton confirms its criterion in writing (email is enough), or raises no defect within 5 business days of Station marking it ready.

05 Out of scope

Anything not listed in Section 03 is out of scope and needs a change order (Section 09). In particular:

– The campaign's own work: the press story, meet-and-greet events, equestrian partnerships and in-person asks belong to the class and the ranch. Station supplies the links, booking page and pipeline they run on.

– Filming and editing the recovery video ad, and buying the ad's media. Running ads is in Marquee Max ($597 a month on its own, or in the Max plan); ad spend is always extra.

- Social posts and email updates written for the ranch. Core is self-serve, written by the class and the intern; Pro ($2,497 a month at list) drafts 12 posts and 2 emails a month for approval; Max ($3,897 a month at list) writes and sends them.
- Text-to-give (Tap Pro, in the Pro plan). Core includes one-time and monthly gifts, Sponsor a horse and invoices.
- Photography and video of the horses. The ranch supplies photos and footage, or approves the class's.
- Horse care, intake, adoption decisions and the cost figures themselves. Station publishes the ranch's numbers; it does not produce them.
- Grant writing, fundraising events, printed flyers and signage.
- Legal, tax or accounting advice, including the wording of donation tax receipts. The ranch confirms its receipt wording with its own adviser.

06 Timeline and milestones

Everything is live within 30 days of signature, in time for Giving Tuesday (1 December 2026) and year-end giving. The plan is month to month; the phases below set the work, not a commitment.

	Phase 1 · Build with the class	Phase 2 · Hand over	Phase 3 · Grow
Dates	November to December 2026	January to March 2027	April 2027 onward
Work	Every product live, weeks 1 to 4 Website with the first horses Donate page in every bio Giving Tuesday and year-end appeal to the list	Intern trained and running the series First win-back wave to lapsed donors and volunteers Sponsor and partner asks from the Radar pipeline	Busy season (start date to confirm) Growth targets reviewed against the baseline Second win-back wave Decide whether to move to Pro or Max
Checkpoint at the end	100% of gifts and sign-ups thanked; the series running twice a week	The intern posts and sends unaided for one month	Quarterly review of the monthly reports

The first 30 days

1. Week 1 — Get found, get given to. Google profile created or claimed, donations live, receipt and thank-you on.
2. Week 2 — Answer everyone. Chat, booking page, missed-call text-back and receptionist live; texting registration filed from the app with the ranch's EIN, approved in about 1 to 3 business days.
3. Week 3 — Thank and follow. Volunteer welcome sequence, the pipeline, email sign-up, review requests, the social calendar and the first sponsor prospects.
4. Week 4 — One home, one report. Website live with Our Horses and Where Your Gift Goes; every bio points to it; first monthly report.

07 Roles and responsibilities

Station builds and runs the systems; Braxton approves every message and owns every decision about the horses, the money and the mission; the class and then the intern supply the stories. R does the work, A approves, C is consulted.

Activity	Station	Braxton (ranch)	Class, then intern

Website build and horse pages	R	A	C (stories, photos)
Donations on the ranch's Stripe	R (set-up)	R, A (owns the account)	—
Message templates in the ranch's voice	R (drafts)	A (edits)	C

What Station needs before work starts

1. Manager access to the Google Business Profile, if one exists, and admin access to Instagram and Facebook.
2. The legal name, EIN and address on the ranch's IRS 501(c)(3) letter, required for the texting registration filed from the app.
3. A Stripe account in the ranch's name for donations (Station walks Braxton through it in the app; about 10 minutes).
4. The names of the horses the site can follow, with intake photos.
5. One hour to review the pre-written messages before they go live.
6. Confirmation that the extra-use limit stays at $0 in the app (so nothing can be billed), or a sponsor to fund top-ups.

08 Investment and payment terms

Station donates the Core plan to the ranch. Nothing is charged for the plan, the website, set-up, the monthly report or the intern training. Core is self-serve, which fits a campaign the class and the intern will write. The table shows Station's list prices so the ranch knows the value of the gift and what the other plans would cost if it ever wanted them.

Plan options, at list price (for reference; none is charged)

Option	Monthly	What it includes
Tell the story Follow Up + Get Found	$924	Thank-you and volunteer follow-up, monthly email, win-back, Google profile, reviews, social scheduling. No website, no donations, no chat or booking. A website is quoted separately after a free demo.
Core — recommended	$1,497	All 12 products at their Standard tier, including one-time and monthly giving and Sponsor a horse, volunteer booking, chat, receptionist (500 minutes) and weekly sponsor prospects, plus the custom website
Pro	$2,497	All 12 products at their Pro tier: larger allowances, 12 social posts and 2 email updates a month drafted for approval, text-to-give, a 25-point Maps grid, plus the custom website
Max	$3,897	All 12 products at their Max tier: posts and emails written and sent for the ranch, the video ad run (ad spend extra), plus the custom website

The donated plan is Core. Pro or Max would be charged at list if the ranch ever chose one. The website is the ranch's: if the donation ends, the ranch keeps the site and all of its data at no charge. Gifts go straight to the ranch's own Stripe account; card fees are Stripe's, and Station takes no share of any gift.

What Core includes each month, and what extra use costs

Use	Included a month	Each extra	Top-up pack, bought ahead
Website chats	250	63.2¢	100 chats for $47
Texts (text-back and volunteer follow-up)	1,900	32.9¢	200 texts for $49
Receptionist minutes	500	79.6¢	100 minutes for $60
Booking reminders by text	100	78¢	100 reminders for $15
Booking reminders by email	300	26¢	—
Emails (thank-yous, follow-up, monthly update, win-back)	25,000	1.9¢	10,000 emails for $141
Review requests	300	$1.31	100 requests for $15

Allowances reset on the 1st of each month. Google profile management, social scheduling (3 accounts), win-back waves (up to 5,000 contacts a wave, quarterly), weekly prospects (5 a week) and donations are not metered.

Payment terms

- Plan. Donated. No invoice, no card on file, no trial period. The donation runs until either party ends it with 60 days' written notice; Station and the ranch review it together each October. If it ends, the ranch keeps the website and receives a full export of its data, including every donor and volunteer contact.
- Extra use. Core's monthly allowances (the table above) are part of the gift. Use beyond them is not: the app warns at 80% and 100%, and the monthly limit on extra use is set to $0 at set-up, so metered sending pauses at the allowance and nothing can ever be billed unless Braxton raises the limit herself. If the ranch wants more, a sponsor can fund top-up packs at the list rates.
- Website. Included in the donation. It is built on the ranch's own domain and photos, and it belongs to the ranch.

09 Assumptions, dependencies and change control

This SOW rests on facts the class's brief is still asking the ranch for. The ranch confirms each one, or replaces it in writing, before signature.

Assumptions confirmed before signature

- ☐ Today's number of donors and volunteers, the target for each, and the date.
- ☐ The primary audience: donors, volunteers or community members.
- ☐ The proposition: Option A, B or C from the brief.
- ☐ Giving by card, Apple Pay, Google Pay or bank on the ranch's own Stripe (one-time, monthly and Sponsor a horse) as the main way to give, with Venmo, GoFundMe and checks as secondary options.
- ☐ The monthly cost of caring for one horse, itemized, or a commitment to start tracking it per horse.
- ☐ Which horses the site and series can follow by name, and whether they can be filmed where they are now.
- ☐ Access to the Wix site and domain, the Facebook and Instagram accounts, and the Google listing, if one exists. (Braxton Brackin is Founder & CEO; Anna Foote is Barn Manager & Instructor; Chloe Bjornberg is Instructor and website administrator.)
- ☐ When the busy season starts, and any words or images the campaign must not use.

Dependencies

- Week 1 work starts only when Google and social access are granted and the Stripe account exists.
- Texting depends on the EIN and carrier approval, about 1 to 3 business days after the registration is filed from the app.
- Message templates go live only after the ranch's one-hour review.
- Where Your Gift Goes depends on the ranch's cost sheet; the page launches with the horses and adds the costs when the sheet arrives.
- The series continuing after December depends on an OU intern being placed by January 2027, which the class arranges.

Change control

1. Either party asks for a change in writing.
2. Station replies within 3 business days with the effect on scope, dates and price.

3. The change takes effect only when both parties approve it in writing.
4. Moving between Core, Pro and Max follows the same process and takes effect on the next billing date.
